The annual ranking, compiled by Fortune in partnership with Korn Ferry, is based on feedback from thousands of executives, directors, and analysts from organizations around the globe. Companies are evaluated on nine criteria, including innovation, people management, social responsibility, quality of management, financial soundness, long-term investment value, quality of products and services, wise use of assets, and global competitiveness.

“Fortune is proud to celebrate the companies on this year’s World’s Most Admired Companies list; they have set the bar for real innovation, resilient leadership, and global impact,” said Alyson Shontell, Fortune’s Editor in Chief and Chief Content Officer. “As rapidly advancing technologies such as AI transform entire industries, these organizations stand out for their ability to evolve with purpose and foresight, consistently shaping the path forward for global business, and the future of how we work and lead.”

With a broad range of capabilities that support clients across food, facilities, and retail services, Aramark brings its focus on hospitality and continuous innovation to the diverse industries it serves, including schools and universities, healthcare organizations, workplaces, cultural attractions and destinations, and leading sports and entertainment venues.

“Hospitality is at the heart of everything we do, and this recognition from Fortune reflects the passion of our people and our commitment to operational excellence,” said John Zillmer, Aramark Chief Executive Officer. “We are honored to be named among the World’s Most Admired Companies and remain dedicated to creating meaningful experiences for the people and communities we serve.”
